The map illustrates the layout of Parque Batlle, a large urban park in Montevideo. The park is divided into several sectors, each with its own name and facilities. The central area is dominated by the Obdulio Varela stadium, surrounded by green spaces and walking paths. To the north, there are sports fields and a small lake. The park is bordered by major streets like Av. Italia and Av. Dr. Américo Ricaldoni. The map also shows the surrounding urban environment, including residential areas and commercial districts. The color-coding helps in identifying different types of spaces: green for parks and sports fields, blue for water bodies, and grey for buildings. The map is a valuable tool for understanding the park's layout and its location within the city.

The map illustrates the layout of Parque Batlle, a large urban park in Montevideo. The park is divided into several sectors, each with its own name and color-coded area. The central part of the park is dominated by the Obdulio Varela stadium, a large grey oval shape. To the left of the stadium is the SDA (Sports and Recreation Administration) building, a large grey rectangular structure. The park is surrounded by a network of streets, including Av. Italia, Av. Dr. Américo Ricaldoni, Av. Dr. Lorenzo Merola, and Av. Federico R. Vidella. The map also shows the location of the Parque Batlle Fotogalería, a small red dot in the upper right quadrant. The surrounding urban area is depicted with a grid of streets and buildings, providing a clear context for the park's location.
